Chief Warrant Officer Raymond A. Frank enlisted in the Army at the age of 17 and served three tours in the Republic of Vietnam. In 1990, he skillfully handled an aircraft emergency, and saved the lives of eight soldiers. Although he was severely injured and told he may never walk again, he overcame the medical odds and continued his flying career. CWO Frank was killed after his aircraft was shot down on 3 October 1993, while defending a downed American aircrew in Somalia. His distinguished career and ultimate sacrifice bring honor to our Nation and the Warrant Officer Corps.
